Throughout his 35 years of service as a Deputy Chief of the Los Angeles Police Department, John McMahon has consistently demonstrated his commitment to public safety by being a leader who insists on professional, compassionate, and dedicated police service. As a leader in the LAPD, McMahon:

- ✔ Serves as a nationally recognized use of force expert with a solid reputation of holding officers accountable to perform and act in ways that are highly professional and appropriate.
- ✔ Created the nationally-acclaimed Use of Force Year End Report.
- ✔ Frequently consults and gives advice and opinions regarding police use of force to police chiefs and prosecutors.
- ✔ Routinely speaks at national conferences on matters relating to police use of force and technology.
- ✔ Gave the Keynote address at 2023 IACP Technology Conference.
- ✔ Developed and implanted unique components of the LAPD de-escalation policy, components of which went beyond just communication and tactics upon arrival at an incident.
